The suspension of the courses due to the COVID-19 pandemic caused the continuation of the activities, only online. Thus, the students watched, from home, the documentary film Apa, the miracle of life and various scientific experiments posted by the project coordinator on the educational platform

The visualized materials were an inspiration for the students in order to make thematic drawings and paintings.

The students expressed their ideas regarding the importance of water and through literary creations. Two of them, most original, were inserted into English-language eBooks, accessible to the public.

The activities ended with the completion of an online questionnaire with the theme Water and climate change, which was aimed at verifying the knowledge of the students accumulated during lessons or through consulting other sources of information.

All the materials made as a result of the activities are found in the online spaces dedicated to the project:
