CLOSER TO OUR SEA

- European marine environmental policies -

Under this generic, students have conducted documenting activities to inform about European marine environmental policies. They selected the most relevant information which they inserted into power point materials or flyers and made them known at the level of the class, school or partnership within a thematic online symposium, which was an opportunity for participants in all partner schools to exchange information on legislation, action plans that countries are implementing against marine pollution.

DISSEMINATION ACTIVITY OF THE OBTAINED RESULTS

THE READING CLUB

*The House of Culture I.N. Roman from Medgidia runs the educational project The Reading Club, in partnership with the educational institutions of the city, which aims to contribute to the discovery of the pleasure of reading, which can become both a source of knowledge and a relaxation. At one of our April meetings, our school students made known their creations in the Erasmus + project and brought them together in a brochure entitled Poetry of the Sea. Thus, those present could appreciate the literary talent of the children, who said that writing a poem dedicated to the SEA is a joy, a twist of thoughts with its infinite beauty.*
