– The format of the residential schools several advantages compared to classic training programs. First, the program of events is very tight and allows for a few days to take a full course that usually takes several months. Second, the participants fall into a community of like-minded people, a rich intellectual and creative environment, which means not only a certain atmosphere, but that each of them receives important and useful contacts. In addition, the schedule of activities of the School built in such a way that professionals at all levels of education can establish their individual trajectory of the visit, selecting only those events which are interesting and necessary to him personally. Well, our program of personal development is a gift to teachers who hardly have the time to attend business trainings, master-classes on the rhetoric or acting, to examine the practices of stress management. Participants leave charged and inspired, with a huge wealth of ideas and practical skills which tomorrow can be used in class.
